

scandinavia to san diego

DNA Gallery is the creation of Danish architect Jesper Pedersen and wife, Cathi, recent arrivals from Denmark. They are importing the classic upper crust of Danish, Swedish and Finnish furniture, lamps and accessories by some of Scandinavia's top architects and designers. Poul Henningsen, Poul Kjaerholm, Alvar Aalto, Verner Panton and Arne Jacobsen — names familiar to anyone who monitors mid-century or contemporary design — are well represented. In addition you'll see paintings by a Copenhagen artist, glass items by a Scandinavian glass blower and items by other talents new to our town. DNA Gallery is in the Cedros Design District.

tip: Get a good book on mid-century design and learn the who's who in Scandinavian design. You can find Mid-Century Modern: Furniture of the 1950s by Cara Greenberg in paperback from Harmony Books, while Taschen offers Decorative Arts 1950s by Charlotte and Peter Fiell. Books like these can help you determine the originals from the wannabes.

THIS PAGE: GAIL OWENS

mama has it

Found. One large-sized D'Orsay Lalique perfume bottle signed René Lalique, five matching Deco chandeliers plus several mismatched others. We missed these in July in the Deco Decades Collecting piece and had to tell you all about it. What Mama Had, University Heights, is an antique shop all deco-ed out.

SAN DIEGO
1035 UNIVERSITY AVE.
619/260-1035

TEMECULA
40705 WINCHESTER RD.
909/296-2270
www.torreonimporters.com